VICTIMS OF 999 COPS' CARNAGE

Victim Holly Burke, a PCSO

THE deaths of three women hit during high-speed 999 police car call-outs sparked pleas for an urgent review last night.

Campaigners said rules on fast response driving by officers must be re-examined.

Holly Burke, 28, died after a car being chased by police ploughed into her Ford Fiesta.

At almost the same time, a police car answering a 999 call mowed down and killed 26-year-old Eritrean refugee Luam Gebremariam.

Both women died in separate incidents on Tuesday night.

Ms Burke's car was hit by a Renault Scenic which had been chased through the streets of Birmingham for 15 minutes before police deployed a stinger device in a bid to stop it.

The Renault carried on at speed
